"Hello" Dance Tonight At 9

Would you like to meet that blonde in your English class?

You will have a chance to meet new friends and have fun at the "Hello" Dance, tonight, from 9-12 p.m. in the student union.

You'll dance to the music of the Zanays and Highlighters, and everyone will be there — even that blonde.

Admission is free with Associated Student card and 50c with a guest permit in advance.

Since this is a get-acquainted dance for SAC students, guests are not expected, according to Sophomore President David Zweig. If there are special circumstances, guest permits will be issued until noon today in Administration 7 and the 50c ticket must be purchased by 3 p.m. in the bookstore.

Dress is cottons for women and slacks and sport shirts for men.

Emily Rogers is the "Hello" chairman; Karen Dodd, decorations; Paul Broughton, publicity; Linda Peters, refreshments; and Doug Davidson, coat and check.

Assisting committee chairmen are Rick Helberg, Roy Irwin, Tom Garrett, Laure Reddick, Doug Davidson, Chuck Antos and Rick Faulkner.

Also Bob Harman, Barbara Coles, Marilyn Youel, John Acuna, and Floyd Braun.

Zweig said the theme of the dance is "a Spanish Hello from SAC."

PRESIDENT'S GREETING

A warm welcome is extended to you students, both new and returning, who are here for the 1964-65 school year. I am sure that student leaders and college staff will do much to make your welcome to SAC a pleasant and remembered experience.

This 1964-65 year marks the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of our college. Our academic reputation has been well established over the 50 years and many of the campus activities in which you will participate are based on the best of tradition. New friends, classroom adventures, and social-cultural events all add up to an exciting year.

We ask that you accept our welcome, given with traditional Don hospitality, and that you in turn will help make this a most happy and profitable year.

5460 STUDENTS:

SAC's New High!

Zoom! Enrollment has skyrocketed to a startling 25% increase for the fall semester, according to George Herron, dean of admissions and records.

Statistics Thursday morning showed 5460 students had completed paper work for registration, a total well over the estimated 5200.

Saturday's figures, Sept. 12, revealed a total of 4917 students had registered.

"Through the combined efforts of the total staff, registration proceeded with few problems," said SAC president John E. Johnson.

First day confusion, according to Dr. Johnson, resulted from the usual "unfamiliarity with the campus, rooms without numbers and the congested parking problem, but by noon things had fairly settled down."

Dean Herron said 237 students completed registration by Monday, boosting attendance to 5154. This is well over final figures handed to El Don for the fall semester in 1963, when enrollment was 4728.

A cross section of student records reveals that student ages run from 17 to 70. The same class may find a housewife, a grandfather, a high school student and a business executive seated next to each other.

Average age of SAC students is 23. Men exceed the women 2 to 1. One in every 4 is married and is working.

Businessmen do not always enroll in a business course, but may be pursuing a particular cultural interest in the fields of art, music or drama.

SAC is again faced with the perennial parking problem. However, the new multi-story Science Complex will provide ample classrooms in the fall of 1966 to allow removal of temporary barracks on the south perimeter of the campus. This will open up many extra parking spaces.

Until that date, however, students and faculty will be faced with the congestion which marks the tempo of our times today.

21 Instructors Join Faculty

Twenty-one new instructors and a new dean have joined SAC for the 1964 fall semester, according to President John E. Johnson.

Dr. Fred H. Bremer, a native of Nebraska, has been named Dean of Liberal Arts, according to Dr. Johnson.

Frank A. Redman, Business Division chairman, welcomed five new instructors to his department.

James G. Alverson is teaching business law; Jack V. Breglio is the data processing supervisor; Rich P. Brunell instructs in typing and shorthand; Mrs. Phyllis J. Butler, business-secretarial; and Robert Scofield is the distributive education coordinator.

David Hartman, Social Science Division chairman, announced Leonard Blau, psychology-counselor, and Mrs. Priscilla Clement, history, to the social science department.

Humanities Division Chairman Lee Ford introduced George E. Geyer, art (ceramics) and Eugene L. Issacson, art, to his department.

John Ward, Physical-Health Division chairman, said two new instructors have joined new football coach Dick Gorrie, who was signed last spring.

Douglas Gorrie and Harry E. Johnson will be physical education instructors and assistant football coaches.

Engineering-Technology Division chairman Harold Moomaw said SAC graduate Dewey E. Stone has joined his department as an automotive instructor.

Science Division chairman Delfmer Mangum said his department has been supplemented by Phillip M. Hanf, electronics, and Dr. Walter H. Pitcher, physical science.

Language Arts Division chairman Robert Anderson said five instructors have joined his newly-created department. They are Harold C. Milnes, English; John J. Moreno, Spanish-English; Ron Pino, English; David R. Wand, English-literature; and Mrs. Celia Zapata, Spanish.

Capacity Crowd Views Orientation

Officially launching their college activities this year, over 500 freshmen attended the annual orientation assembly Tuesday morning in Phillips Hall.

Seated in the aisles and standing outside the doors, the students viewed special entertainment given by the International Folk Singers.

Organized by Champ Gabler, Commissioner of Assemblies, the hour-long assembly was given unusual poster publicity by Commissioner of Publicity Skip Oakes.

Both ASB President Tom Wilson and SAC President John E. Johnson welcomed the freshmen with messages that outlined "hopes and expectations" for the new year.

Cabinet members and the Supreme Court were introduced by President Wilson. Vice President Dennis Weaver introduced the Senate.

The songleaders and flagtwirlers danced and twirled through their new routines. A pinch of pep was added by SAC's yell-leaders who passed out mimeographed copies of the cheers.

The International Folk Singers, a North Hollywood group which recently recorded an album with RCA Victor, sang folk songs from foreign lands.

Club displays and refreshments greeted the freshmen after the program.

AWS Sponsors Tea, Fashion Show

What's the latest in the way of fall fashions?

Freshmen and sophomore women, and all women faculty members are invited to attend the Associated Women Student's Tea and Fashion Show Thursday, Sept. 24, 7:30 p.m. in the student union.

Admission is free, according to AWS President Jan Engisch, and representatives of women's service clubs will be present.

Applications are being taken to fill the two freshman representative positions on the AWS cabinet. Sign up sheets can be found in ADM 7 until Sept. 23.

As We See It

(EDITORIAL ANALYSIS)

Let's Make It Golden!

Santa Ana College is 50 years old this year.

Founded in 1915 as an extension of Santa Ana Senior High School, the college has pursued a pattern of steady growth in enrollment, campus facilities and curriculum.

Students who attended the college within this span of 50 years have experienced simultaneously acquisition of knowledge, hope, war, love, disappointment and success. They laughed; they cried; and they matured. Subsequently, they dispersed a trail of tradition upon the campus' 48 acres.

Yet SAC is still fresh and new. It is still young — almost ageless. It is, of course, new to the freshmen, the foreign students, and others who enroll for the first time. But it is also new to those who return — the faculty, the administration and the sophomore class. For every year brings new events, new problems, and new discoveries.

This year is a special one for all of us. In addition to celebrating SAC's Golden Anniversary, we are celebrating the birth of a new student government — a form of government unlike any previous government in the history of our college.

Our new constitution, patterned after our Federal Constitution, wisely assigns both joint and separate roles to each of the three branches of government. It is a system of checks and balances, which, if used correctly, will result in more participation and more satisfaction for more students than ever before.

Associated Students President Tom Wilson and his student government leaders have a tremendous job ahead of them. It is their responsibility to make this new form of government work.

TOM WILSON

Welcome Address

In behalf of the Associated Students, I wish to welcome you to Santa Ana College.

SAC offers you many educational opportunities. The only way to take advantage of these opportunities is to study and work hard. The fact that you have registered in college indicates your desire to get an education.

OPPORTUNITIES

The quality of education you obtain will depend upon your willingness to make the most of the tremendous opportunities which lie ahead.

I am looking forward to sharing your knowledge as you progress in your educational and co-curricular activities here at SAC.

Your education, however, should not come only from the classroom curriculum.

If your source of education is only from textbooks, you have missed a great opportunity to learn by doing. This, in essence, is what your Associated Student organization has to offer you.

LEARNING PROCESS

Basically, student government is a learning process for all concerned. I encourage you to participate in one of the many programs and reap the many intrinsic benefits of student government.

Your student government leaders carry out the will of the Associated Students. Until you inform your student leaders of your wishes and make suggestions, we can only conjecture as to your wishes.

I cannot over emphasize the need for collective thinking, planning, and action when we participate in student government activities. The Senate and Cabinet want you to express your ideas concerning the school. We want and need them to run the school the way you want it run.

FIFTIETH YEAR
For SAC's fiftieth year of op-

But the responsibility does not lie on the shoulders of the student leaders alone. Every member of the Associated Students must share a portion of the responsibility. Activities can be planned, but they must also be attended. Students can attend activities, but they must do so with spirit and a sincere interest.

Student government and student activities can succeed only with the will of the students themselves. Let's make this a year of enthusiasm and cooperation.

President John F. Kennedy put the same idea into these words: "We want from you (students) not the sneers of the cynics nor the despair of the fainthearted. We ask of you enlightenment, vision, illumination."

Let's make 1964-65 truly a golden year for Santa Ana College.

Congratulations Ed

A million to one — and SAC is gifted with that millionth one.

All eyes were upon sophomore Ed Caruthers last week when he jumped his way up to first place in the Olympic trials at the Coliseum in Los Angeles.

Despite the great number of high jumpers who tried out, only three succeeded in earning the right to represent the United States in the Olympic Games next month in Tokyo.

Accomplishing such a feat demands a tremendous amount of work and will power and a lot of persistence. Making the Olympic Team was one of Caruthers' foremost ambitions. He succeeded because he thought it was worth all the work and effort.

We too think it was worth all the work and effort. El Don extends congratulations and best wishes for Caruthers' success in the Olympics. Good luck, Ed — we're all with you.

Sophomore Senses Political Apathy

By CANDY SATTEZAHN
El Don Staff Writer

"Today there is a great deal of apathy among the older generation," sighed Dave Whitney, his forehead crinkling thoughtfully. "It's important for youth, tomorrow's leaders, to know all that's possible about politics."

Whitney's summer project was attending a week-long seminar on anti-communism, sponsored by the Intercollegiate Society of Individualists.

Held this year at St. Mary's College in San Francisco, the seminar was started in 1953 to introduce conservative thinking to college students. It was patterned after classes promoted by the liberals in the 1930's.

Thirty students from the Western states attended. They were chosen on the basis of their activities in conservative circles, student leadership, and answers given on questionnaires.

Classes covered the four basic fields of history, economics, philosophy, and politics.

Each of the six lecturers held doctorate degrees; three were former members of White House staffs and two were previously advisers to foreign countries.

"I gained the attitude of digging deep into a subject and placing reason over action," Whitney remarked.

Earlier this summer Whitney, a sophomore, received a scholarship to attend the Washington, D.C. School of Anti-Communism. He sadly refused, for he was attending summer school at SAC.

How did Whitney's interest in politics begin? "One night a friend of mine from SAC dropped in and along about midnight we started talking politics. We stopped at five the next morning."

Since then Whitney has joined the Young Republicans, of which he was precinct chairman last semester, and Young Americans for Freedom.

He became interested in John Schmitz's campaign for state senate and offered to help. He is now an assistant to Dick Murphy, who is Schmitz's campaign manager.

Whitney has moved quickly up the political ladder. He is now Youth for Goldwater chairman for Orange County.

A political science major, the handsome six-footer plans to continue studies at UCLA with a minor in international relations and a background in economics.

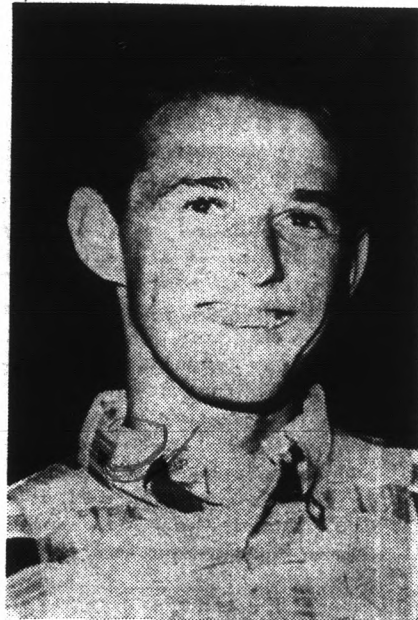

Whitney graduated from Santa Ana High where he "didn't know the difference between a Republican and a Democrat!"

After high school he joined the Navy, so his political interests didn't develop until he was 21 years old.

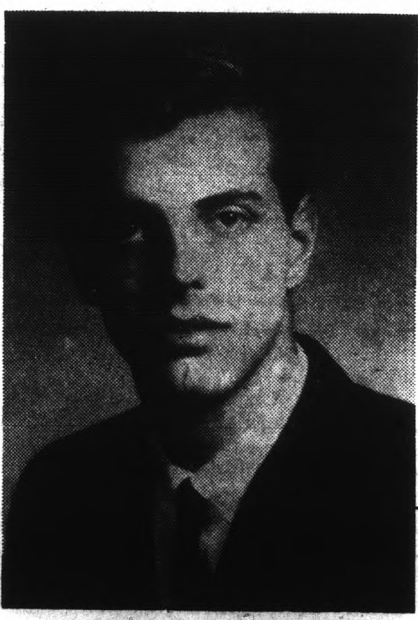

The greatest problem today, Whitney feels, is the meager role politics plays in daily life. "College students are all gung-ho on politics, but later they fall into the apathetic masses," laments Whitney.

"College youths should join some political or study group — something to use as a spring-board," he continued.

"It's healthy to talk politics as long as you look at both sides of the situation. Too many people today take just a superficial attitude."

Audience Enthused With Convocation

Bursting with enthusiasm and laughter, a capacity crowd of over 500 students filled Phillips Hall Thursday morning for Convocation.

Dr. Frederic P. Woellner, Professor Emeritus of U.C.L.A., spoke on the topic "What Do You Do When You Have Nothing To Do?"

Dr. Woellner, who is in great demand and is recognized internationally as an outstanding speaker, captivated the entire audience with humorous anecdotes, yet managed to put across a serious subject.

President John E. Johnson introduced Dr. Woellner and told students: "You are standing in the doorway of education. We invite you to step across the threshold."

"We are always perfecting what we should be rejecting," said Dr. Woellner. "What you do with your leisure time in the future will make or break you."

Executive Cabinet, Senate Open Shop

Student legislators held their initial sessions this week, with the newly-formed ASSAC Senate sharing the burden of work.

Tom Garret, Senate Rules Committee chairman, told the 13 sophomore senators that "work has been completed on five of the nine newly proposed by-laws."

As soon as the by-laws are completed, copies will be distributed to the students. Previous by-laws remain in effect until new ones are adopted by the Senate.

President Pro-tem Dennis Weaver said the sophomore Senate seat vacated by Cindy Cook would be appointed by President Tom Wilson. Miss Cook is attending the University of Arizona. Petitions for seven freshmen senate seats will be available soon.

SAC's Executive Cabinet held a dinner meeting Wednesday at Stouffer's restaurant in Santa Ana. The ten members approved the selection of ASSAC Vice President Weaver as chairman of the first Inter-Club Council meeting next Thursday.

Cabinet advisers are Deans William Corser and Miss Isabelle Rellstab.

SAC Will Host EC Pep Clinic

SAC will be the host college for the Eastern Conference Pep Clinic Wednesday Sept. 23, from 2 to 6, according to Rallies Commissioner Ginnie Odenath.

EC colleges include Cerritos, Chaffey, Citrus, Fullerton, Mt. San Antonio, Orange Coast, SAC, and San Bernardino.

Following the Pep Clinic will be a dinner in the student union, 6-7:30 p.m.

EC Pep Clinic's main purpose is to prepare pep squads for upcoming activities and give them opportunity to meet squads from other colleges, explained Miss Odenath.

Drills and new routines are the order for the day as time draws near for the first football game of the season, Saturday, Sept. 26.

Yell leaders include Cheryl

Vinson, Rick Helberg, Tom Garrett, and for the first time, an identical pair of twins—Connie and Carol Handy.

Song leaders are Jan Engisch, Karen Kohler, Lynn Ohlgren, Nancy Thompson, Diana Mayes, Candy Barnes, and Peggy Oberdorfer.

New flag twirlers include Miss Odenath, J'neen Ruhman, Patti Procter, Ruth Lambert, Renee Curiale, Lauren Chaisson, and Pat Foster.

All were selected last spring by former pep squad members, instructors and coaches.

"We have a very fine team this year," said Miss Odenath, "and if we all get behind them and give them our full support, we could spend our fiftieth anniversary at the Junior Rose Bowl."

NABS OLYMPIC SLOT

Caruthers Waves Sayonara

Out of all the high jumpers in the United States only three will represent their nation in the Olympic Games next month in Tokyo.

One, John Thomas of Boston, has competed in the Olympics before. The other two are young Southern Californians who have just recently risen to fame. John Rambo of Long Beach State will be competing for the United States as will a 19 year old Santa Ana College sophomore named Ed Caruthers. The team will leave for Japan on Sept. 27. Ed plans to return to SAC in Feb.

"I know if I jump my best I can beat anybody," Caruthers once said. So far his best has been 7' 1/4" when he beat Thomas for the first time on June 13.

HASN'T REACHED PEAK

Still Caruthers feels he has not reached his peak. He believes he is capable of soaring as high as 7-6, which could give him a gold medal in Tokyo. However at 19 Caruthers realizes that he has plenty of time to develop his potential and he can look forward to 1968 with the highest dreams.

After his first victory over Thomas, the SAC star and Rambo went on to earn berths in the Russian-American track meet. Caruthers finished third to the Russians with a jump of 6-10.

All summer the world has been his practice field. Sunday all the Santa Ana College won't open its 1964 football season until a week from tonight, and as far as head coach Dick Gorrie is concerned the added week's work will be very welcome.

"With a team as inexperienced as ours the extra week will undoubtedly help," reasoned Gorrie. As things stand now SAC might well open the campaign with as many as eight freshmen in the starting line-up.

The Dons will travel to Long Beach for the lid-lifter next Friday at 8 p.m. After that SAC returns home for a contest with Cerritos on Oct. 3 before hosting Chaffey in the Eastern Conference race opener on Oct. 10.

A small turnout has left the Dons with a lack of depth. "Many players may have to go both ways," bemoans Gorrie. Most likely to start both ways in the Long Beach opener is sophomore John Pitts who plays end on offense and halfback on defense.

Among Gorrie's biggest concerns at the time is molding an adequate offense. "Right now the defense is far ahead," he confided. Under the ideal Gorrie offense, passing is the name of the game. However at the present time neither freshman quarterback Jeff Matlock (all county from Brea) or returning letterman Mike Davis have been coming along as fast as their receivers.

Matlock was one of the few key players who Gorrie was able to corral during the spring and summer recruiting session. Because of its late start Santa Ana has lost much of the top local talent to the other Orange County junior colleges.

When first string halfback Henri Jensen decided not to return to SAC this fall Gorrie was left with still another unresolved problem. "It's hard to replace a ballplayer of Jensen's caliber. His position is wide open," said the coach.

Gorrie sees Orange Coast (defending national champion), Fullerton, and San Bernardino as the leading powers in the upcoming EC campaign. He also rates his two preseason opponents, Long Beach and Cerritos, as "two of the best in the country."

CC - Still A Delaney

Trying for an unprecedented fourth consecutive Eastern Conference cross-country championship, Coach John Ward's Don harriers open competition at the annual Long Beach Invitational Meet, September 26.

Although five members of last year's championship team have returned this year, Ward stated that it would be hard to replace Bob Delaney who won the State cross-country championship and the mile and the two-mile at the State track meet.

Coach Ward expects his number one man to be Bob's brother Bill who ran second most of last season. Other lettermen include Gil Stratton, Rich Cayer, Mike Eck, and Gil Rangel. Ward also has three promising freshmen who figure prominently in his defense of the Eastern Conference title in Sunset League mile champion Sal Mendoza of Santa Ana, Mike Hale of Garden Grove, and Mike Manell of Tustin.

With the Eastern Conference as good or better than last year, Ward figures Fullerton should be favored on the strength of returning lettermen.

JIMNASTICS

Who's Laughing Now?

By JIM BAILEY
El Don Sports Editor

A year ago at this time the most popular sport around the Metropolitan and Western Conference campuses was knocking the Eastern Conference.

While Orange Coast was winging its way to national prominence via nine straight EC football victories, critics were prompt to point out that the western Junior Rose Bowl representative had not beaten any teams outside of its conference. The oddsmakers believed the propaganda and installed Northeast Oklahoma A&M as the favorite. The final result showed a 21-0 OCC triumph.

After that Riverside went on to win the State basketball championship, followed by a great Santa Ana upset in the California track finals. Bob Delaney paced the Don victory with double triumphs in the mile and the two-mile.

Mt. San Antonio then went on to complete the sweep for the EC by knocking off Vallejo Valley 11-5 and 10-1 for the baseball title.

Now with only eight teams in the Eastern Conference more head-on games with teams in other leagues may help further to prove the power of the Eastern Conference. We shall see.

Rowland Junks Sophomore Jinx

The sophomore jinx will find no home at SAC this year as far as second year water polo coach Rick Rowland is concerned. Experience, depth, and a stop-and-go offense add up to an optimistic outlook for the '64 Don poloists.

Seven returning lettermen give Coach Rowland the experience he lacked last year. Larry Lefner, '63 All-Eastern Conference first stringer, and Terry Reish, team assist leader last season, head the list of returning swimmers. Other veterans Randy Beaton, Bruce Boer, Roy Irwin, Jim Stake, and Jim Hanzel combine for a hard core of experience.

Depth, the team's biggest weakness last year, will be supplied by 14 freshmen poloists. Tom Bortner, who was leading scorer at Garden Grove High under Rowland, and Bob Cristie, Savanna High's leading scorer head the list of newcomers.
